

Independent Sales Contractors are currently being interviewed for the premier environmental company, BioLynceus, the proven leader in delivering high quality probiotic programs and sustainable green solutions. We offer products for municipal and industrial wastewater treatment and reclamation.

BioLynceus is seeking candidates who are interested in providing top quality value to B2B clients. Income potential $50k to $200k. We are experiencing tremendous growth and have opportunities available in several US states.

BioLynceus requires enthusiastic, self-motivated, highly productive people, who are passionate about working independently, AND will offer fabulous customer service. All candidates must be able to work effectively from their self-owned virtual office. Training in our proprietary solutions is provided to assure the best delivery of products and services to the market. Industry experience or proven sales experience is preferred, but not required. Ongoing sales training and product support are provided to maximize your ability to succeed.

Send your cover letter and resume to: careers@BioLynceus.com.

No phone calls please.